Reasons for Compromise.

When seen last evening Mayor Bransford declined to discuss the details of the conference, but said that it was not for the purpose of soliciting the support of the saloon men for his candidates, and rejected. An address to the public was being prepared last evening by dacy. The meeting of the three, however, is significant from the fact that Kearns is purported to be in control of the American party saloon vote with Mulvey as his active working lieutenant.

The Kearn-Bransford-Mulvey attempt to secure the saloon vote of the American party is just a little late. For months Joseph Lippman and his workers have been securing signatures of supporters on little cards which are carefully deposited in a filing cabinet for future reference. Among this collection of autographs are the signatures of a large number of saloon men. Most of these men will stay with Lippman and will decline to be delivered to Bransford by Kearns and Mulvey. What promises Lippman has made to the saloon men in case of his election are not made public, but there are many of them who are working hard for him.

They had found it impossible to run Wallace on the Citizens ticket after he had been nominated by the Democratic convention, and they are now asking that the Republican

An interesting feature of the status of the Citizens movement is the fact that the men who now style themselves leaders of the party have discredited those who were the originators of the party, and say they have eliminated them from the organization. The first two to fall by the wayside were A. S. Reiser and B. F. Grant, the two most prominent in the early formation of the

None of the members of the party who called upon the governor yesterday cared to discuss the matter, merely de claring that nothing was done, and re fusing to admit that overtures had been made to Governor Spry to lead them out of the wilderness. George G. Smith said there was "nothing doing," and would say no more.

Present leaders of the movement, now well upon the rocks, have appealed to prominent Republicans for support, but have received slight encouragement as a result of the policy adopted in the organization of the party. The urgent appeal to the governor was taken as a measure of last resort. Governor Spry did not care to discuss the matter last night further than that "nothing had been accomplished."
